Both are initiatives started well before this case. I was simply using this time to redo the web presence for both.

The TK Emerging Entrepreneur scholarship is a charity giveback I started in 2018. Here is one of the press articles about it: <https://southbostononline.com/launchbyte-picks-25000-winner-at-excel/>

The SeedLink Foundation was something I developed in 2015. It builds interlinked eco-communities across developing nations, providing micro-financing, critical resources, and housing exclusively for local entrepreneurs and their families.

Hi Marlenny,

Sure - I think you have seen that I am very careful in making sure that I am compliant with the rules. This is just a personal blog/side project of mine. As you can see I'm not selling anything nor am I seeking any monies. These are projects that I have established several years ago and I'm just using the time being home alone in self Quarantine to revamp and redo the graphic presence . Please let me know if you'd like further clarification

Hi Tan,

It was brought to my attention that within the last year, you created the website: www.tkabra.com, which discusses The SeedLink Project (established 2015) and the Emerging Entrepreneur Scholarship Program (established 2018). Can you please explain what this website is about, since you know very well that you are ordered to not engage in self-employment or in employment in which he is a fiduciary.

Thank You.
